A week in the life of the world
16 FEBRUARY 2024

Guardian Weekly is an edited selection of some of the best journalism found in the Guardian and Observer newspapers in the UK and the Guardian's digital editions in the UK, US and Australia. The weekly magazine has an international focus and three editions: global, Australia and North America. The Guardian was founded in 1821, and Guardian Weekly in 1919. We exist to hold power to account in the name of the public interest, to uphold liberal and progressive values, to fight for the common good, and to build hope. Our values, as laid out by editor CP Scott in 1921, are honesty, integrity, courage, fairness, and a sense of duty to the reader and the community. The Guardian is wholly owned by the Scott Trust, a body whose purpose is "to secure the financial and editorial independence of the Guardian in perpetuity". We have no proprietor or shareholders, and any profit made is re-invested in journalism.

On the cover
With Imran Khan, the popular PTI leader, having been imprisoned on a range of charges, Pakistan's election seemed to offer a path to victory for Nawaz Sharif, the military's preferred candidate. But that wasn't how things turned out, with the PTI emerging as the biggest party amid widespread allegations of vote-rigging.
