

4

GLOBAL REPORT

Headlines from the last seven days

United Kingdom 8

Science & Environment 9

The big story

United Kingdom England's far-right fuelled riots 10

34

FEATURES

Long reads, interviews & essays

The historian rescuing Ukraine's art from the frontline

By Charlotte Higgins 34

Low-paid and migrant cleaners fight back

By Jack Shenker 40

45

OPINION

Catherine Bennett

US Democrats need to get more creative with the insults 45

▼ Viv Groskop

Moving the dial: why it's time to hang up the landline 47

Jane Martinson

BBC must learn lessons from the Huw Edwards scandal ... 48

*"I don't think I know where our home phone is
now. It hasn't rung for so long that I wouldn't recognise the sound"*

51

CULTURE

TV, film, music, theatre, art, architecture & more

Music

The secret life of the men
guarding rap artists 51

Stage

We've been expecting you: the return of Godot 54

► Visual arts

Surrealism on the move to celebrate its centenary 55

Books

Indians assess their country's political transformation 57

60

LIFESTYLE

Ask Annalisa

Envy of siblings' bond 60

Kitchen aide

Showtime for TV snacks 61

Recipe

Sunday kitchari 61

15

SPOTLIGHT

In-depth reporting and analysis

► Middle East

Can anything stop all-out
regional war? 15

United States/Russia

Pjotr Sauer on the release of his friend Evan Gershkovich 18

Thailand

Monks on a mission to clean up
Bangkok's waterways 24

Brazil

Gangs digging for Amazon's newest 'black gold' 26

Science

How women and people of colour shaped maths 30

United States

Why a recession could play right into Trump's hands 33

On the cover

Ugly scenes in towns and cities across England and Northern Ireland have attempted to generate a narrative from voices on the populist right of a broken society. As Sunder Katwala writes, this warping of public sentiment "should not be countered by government alone. How the rest of us talk and act can make a difference."

Illustration: Guardian Design

Join the community

Twitter: @guardianweekly
facebook.com/guardianweekly
Instagram: @guardian_weekly